Case - Timothy N. Pfeiffer,
Subject - Homicide, New Brunswick, N.J.,
Operative - 124.

Bill Whittaker's mother had had thirteen (13) children, and that some of them had died and others were living. Mrs. Ferry knew of the Easton woman and said that Bill Whittaker had lived with her, but that Mrs. Easton was very kind to Bill's mother, in fact Mrs. Easton bought the shroud in which Bill's mother was buried.

Being unable to gain any further information at the last mentioned place, Operative proceeded to #330 $\frac{1}{2}$ Centre St., Trenton, N.J., and there interviewed Mrs. Jack Whittaker, a sister-in-law of Bill Whittaker.

Mrs. Jack Whittaker advised Operative that she did not know much concerning the Whittaker family, as she had not married into the family until after the mother had died. She advised Operative that her father-in-law Mr. Whittaker passed away seven years ago last March. Mrs. Jack Whittaker advised Operative that she had often heard her husband speak of the Easton woman, and that Bill Whittaker worked for her and lived with her, but that she had never seen the Easton woman nor did she know just where her store was located on South Broad Street. Mrs. Jack Whittaker said that she had also heard her husband talk about how his brother Fred had died from the effect of being struck by a baseball bat about seventeen years ago. It is Mrs. Jack Whittaker's impression that her mother-in-law (Mrs Whittaker) has been dead for about ten or eleven years.

Upon leaving the Centre Street address, Operative proceeded to #528 Shiller Ave., White City, Trenton, N.J., and there interviewed Mrs. Lizzie Dumbusky, a sister of Bill Whittaker.

Mrs. Dumbusky advised Operative that her brother Bill had gone to live and work for Mrs. Easton about twelve or fourteen years ago, when Mrs. Easton had a second-hand furniture store at Chestnut & South Broad St., Trenton, N.J., and that he also was with Mrs. Easton when she had her place at
